Are you suffering from
Color Anxiety?
Is this leading to Painting Paralysis?

Call KT Interior Designs for an In-Home Color Consultation

For many home owners, deciding what colors to paint the interior or exterior of your home can be a very frustrating and unsettling event. Painting your whole house or even just one room is an investment and making the wrong choice can be very costly.

If you are spending hours agonizing over paint chips and you lack the confidence to make a decision, then KT Interior Designs has just the right solution—an In-Home Color Consultation.

We work with you to determine what colors you are attracted to, what colors will go with existing furniture and fixtures and help you make timely decisions about your final color choices.

We make choosing colors fun and easy! If your next painting project is being held up by your color anxiety, one simple call can provide the solutions to all your color needs. We will help you create the ultimate color palette that will always make you feel at home!
